Excerpt: . . . effect of denying buyers any equity in their properties and creating higher effective LTV ratios. FHA has requirements which have the effect of ensuring that FHA homebuyers obtain a certain amount of instant equity at closing, but seller-funded down-payment assistance effectively undercuts these requirements. That is, when the sales price represents the fair market value of the house, and the homebuyer contributes 3 percent of the sales price at the closing, the LTV ratio is less than 100 percent. But when a seller raises the sales price of a property to accommodate a contribution to a nonprofit that provides down-payment assistance to the buyer, the buyers mortgage may represent 100 percent or more of the property's true market value. Our prior analysis has found that, controlling for other factors, high LTV ratios lead to increased claims. The adverse performance of loans with seller-funded down-payment assistance has had negative consequences for FHA. FHA has estimated that its single-family mortgage insurance program would require a subsidy - that is, appropriations - in 2008...
